Cyber and Data Breach Management in Travel

5 March 2019 • Grant Thornton, 30 Finsbury Square, London, EC2A 1AG

About the event

The travel industry holds a vast amount of personal and sensitive data, making travel businesses vulnerable to cyber attacks and data breaches.

Attend ABTA's new seminar to ensure your business is prepared and able to report quickly and efficiently should you suspect you have suffered a breach. You should have robust breach detection, investigation and internal reporting procedures in place in order to respond.

A breach can be a result of an internal error or external attack. For certain types of data breaches, companies now under the new GDPR have a duty to report to the Information Commissioner's Office within 72 hours of becoming aware.

Do you know what the correct processes are? Are you able to locate the affected data and identify the risk to your business and data subjects? Do you know who from your company needs to come together as your response team? Can you inform data subjects easily? What is your response plan and how do you ensure that business can be maintained?

ABTA's new seminar is designed to answer the above questions and equip attendees with the tools they need to plan for, respond to, and recover from a cyber or data breach. Hear guidance from, and put your questions to legal, industry, cyber, insurance, communication and ABTA experts.

Benefits of attending

- Ensure you are ready, and have the correct processes in place, for a data breach
- Learn what the most common threats are and how to educate staff to spot the signs
- Understand how to protect your business' reputation and continue business as normal after an attack
- Take part in practical exercises and get top tips for how to respond to a breach, whatever your business size
- Network with peers from the travel industry and discuss common challenges and solutions

Who should attend?

The event is ideal for anyone interested in learning more about or involved in the management of data breaches, including large and small firms:

- Directors, CEOs and senior managers
- Legal and compliance teams
- IT teams
- Security teams
- Operations teams.
