Road Transport Safety and Security

16 May 2024

ABTA, 30 Park Street, London, SE1 9EQ

About the event

Whether a coach transfer, private taxi, or an excursion bus it's important that as part of your safety management system, travel providers consider their road transportation services. The steps organisations have in place from contracting to delivery for the safe provision of these services is crucial.

It's important that your transportation suppliers in destination have appropriate risk assessments and controls in place to manage vehicle safety. Can they demonstrate to you that the vehicles they provide for your customers and staff are serviced, maintained and adequately insured? That their drivers are trained and have the appropriate licenses, and they have robust emergency procedure in place should things go wrong?

Attending this training day will guide you through the steps that you can take when considering road transport safety to enable smooth journeys for your customers. You will be provided with thorough guidance on carrying out effective risk assessments and ensuring your suppliers are doing the same.

Benefits of attending

- Understand the areas that should be considered when contracting road transportation services.
- Discover how to carry out transport risk assessments of your suppliers.
- Learn the steps to check suppliers can demonstrate due diligence.
- Learn how to develop effective response plans.
- Get tips and guidance on what to do when things go wrong.

Who should attend?

- Health and Safety teams
- Operations managers
- Crisis and incident managers
- Risk management personnel
